

Can You Help Us Find the Next Symphony Designers' Showhouse?

The Symphony Designers' Showhouse is a project of the Kansas City Symphony Alliance (KCSA) volunteer group and is a fundraiser for the Kansas City Symphony. The Showhouse has become a Kansas City tradition, having operated continuously for nearly 50 years. Each year, premier designers use their unique talents to turn one of Kansas City's magnificent mansions into the Symphony Designers' Showhouse that attracts as many as 10,000 visitors. At the Showhouse, visitors see the latest in design trends and have opportunities to gain valuable insights from designers. The design areas are featured in the popular Showhouse program magazine, which is a publication dedicated solely to the Showhouse in the May issue. All visitors receive a copy of the magazine and use it as a guide for touring the Showhouse. The magazine features color photographs of each of the design areas, complete with detailed descriptions.

A major benefit to the Showhouse owner is that the home is returned to the homeowner with many interior and exterior improvements. In some previous Showhouses, these improvements have been valued at more than $100K. Improvements include quality products and items from sponsoring companies such as Grohe Fixtures, Wilson Lighting, and Sherwin Williams, often at little or no cost to the homeowner!

If the homeowner is considering selling the house, what better exposure than presenting it as a Symphony Designers' Showhouse? Potential buyers see the house in tip-top condition. The Symphony Designers' Showhouse is not only featured on our website but also on billboards, radio broadcasts, television broadcasts, and social media.

Finally, it's a unique community service to share a home to benefit the Kansas City Symphony.
